Von der Ahe Writes a Strong Letter About the Umpires.

CENERAL BASEBALL NEWS OF THE DAY

The local ball club won a great game at Boston yesterday. The League leaders were completely outplayed. Rowe and Miller each made a home run. New York was also beaten and Boston is still first. Von der Ahe has sent a strong protest to the Association Board of Directors about President Byrne, of Brooklyn, and the umpires.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR. BOSTON, September 5.-The Bostons tried hard to throw up the leadership to-day, but the fates were against any such proceeding, and, as the Giants were also defeated, the Bostons are still on top. They were beaten out of their boots by the Pittsburg players, who seemed to take fiendish delight in rubbing it into the fallen Bean Eaters." The drubbing which the latter received was as emphatic as it was painful, and, although there were several close decisions against the home club, they cannot lay their defeat at the feet of the umpire. The Bostons played a losing game from the start, and lost courage when the visitors took the lead in the first inning. The game was decided in that inning, and the succeeding eight innings only added to the agony. The playing of the home nine was painfully weak when contrasted with the dashing work of the visitors. The latter played ball for all the game was worth, fielding and batting like champious. The veterans Galvin and Radbourn were pitted against each other, and Galvin landed on top.

THE BATTING WAS HEAVY.

The batting was about even so far as base-hit column shows, but the Boston hits were too scattered to be of much use. The Pittsburg sluggers not only bunched their hits, but they also gathered in a couple of home runs and a three-bagger, all of which had a demoralizing effect upon the Bean Eaters. Kelly was unable to play owing to an injury received yesterday, and he appointed Dan Brouthers captain pro tem; perhaps it was that fact that upset the Boston players and left them helpless. Brown made his first appearace in nearly a month, but he did nothing to show that his lay-off had been beneficial. Quinn was suffering from a dose of rattles, and couldn't seem to pick up the ball. Nash, however, made some brilliant stops. Rowe and White carried off the fielding honors for the Pittsburgs, and Rowe's batting was also a feature. Richardson did some pretty hitting for the Bostons, but he spoiled the effect of two hits by miserable base running. The crowd numbered but 1,917, the smallest attendance of

A CHEERING START.

When Richardson opened the game with a single everybody thought it augured well for opinion only half an inning. A sacrifice and Nash's hit gave Richardson a chance to score the first run for Boston. Then there was a than five minutes the cheers had changed into a groan. Radbourn opened the Pittsburg game with wild efforts to get the ball over the plate and Carroll walked to first bose, Rowe showed his contempt for Boston by trying to kill Smith, the bean eating shortstop. The ball banged smartly against his shins and landed out near the bleacheries. Smith nursed his shins while Nash ran for the ball and Carroll improved the opportunity to reach third. Beckley tried to dispose of Quinn in a like manner, but the latter handled the ball properly and threw it to the plate in time to put out Carroll. The latter dodged back and fourth until he saw Rowe on third and Beckley on second and then he gave up the hopeless task of trying to escape. Radbourn had another nervous fit and Deacon White walked to first after vainly waiting for a good ball. With the bases full landed out near the bleacheries. Smith nursed FIELDS MADE HIMSELF SOLID with the management by lining out a hot one past Smith, bringing in Rowe and Beckley, This success seemed to make him careless, for while he was thinking of the hit, Radbourne caught him napping at first base. Miller, whose coaching had been the life of the game, showed that he could bat as well as talk by lifting the ball over the left fence for a home run, and as he trotted home behind White he was greeted he trotted home behind White he was greeted with hearty applause. Miller is quite a favorite in Boston and the crowd was glad to see him walk off with the honors if they were to go to any outsider. Maul showed that he, too, had on his batting clothes by sending the ball flying into right center for three bases. Dunlap made an effort to bring him bome, but couldn't get the ball out of Quinu's reach. When the inning closed the Bostons saw defeat staring them in the face and each succeeding inning only strengthened the feeling that they were to receive their third successive trouncing.

THEY TOOK A REST. Both nines took a rest in the second inning. and the third also resulted in a blank, although the Bostons got in two hits. Richardson had the first, but it was a fly to short right field, and be was easily thrown out when he at-tempted to make two bases on it. It was in the fourth that the unequal nature of the con test was again vividly portrayed. The Bostons sized up Galvin for two hits, and on these, aided by a sacrifice, Quinn hustled across the plate with Boston's second run. But it the baseball cranks had their hopes raised by that performance they suffered a relapse when the visitors got their whack at the bail. Maul threw some spell of witchcraft over Rad and received a present of the first bag. Ganzel, who had been unjustly called out at second in the first half of the inning had not recovered his composure, and when Maul tried to purloin second Ganzel threw the ball high over Smith's head, then Dunlap, seeing that the Bostons were ratied, hit to Quinn. His surmise was test was again vividly portrayed. The Bostons then Duniap, seeing that the Bostons were rat-tied, hit to Quinu. His surmise was correct. Quinn fumbled the ball until Maul had reached third and then threw wildly to cut off Duniap. The result was a run for Maul and Duniap reached second base. Galvin sacri-ficed his chances and advanced Duniap to third, by hitting a slow one to Nash. Duniap played off too far, and he would have been caught if Ganzel had thrown accurately, but he did not, and Duniap was safe. Carroll lifted the ball far into center field and Johnston he did not, and Dunlap was safe. Carroll lifted the ball far into center field and Johnston caught it, but he couldn't throw it to the plate, and Dunlap scored easily. As if to clinch mat-ters, Rowe sent the ball flying through a hole in the right field fence for a home run, and Beckley made Rad's hair raise a few degrees by lining the ball into right center for a single. Then the visitors thought they would take a little exercise in the field, and Deacon White closed the inning by giving Quinn an easy bounder.

SOME GOOD PITCHING. Both pitchers did some good work in the fifth and sixth innings, and Galvin kept it up in the seventh. But the pace was too hot for Rad-bourn, and he weakened in the last of the seventh. Rowe led off with a single, Beckley struck out much to his own disgust and Rad's delight. But White made up for it by landing the ball into right field for another single, sending Rowe to third. Fields again came to the rescue with a timely hit to left field and Rowe scored. White going to second. Hardie Richardson's arm was lame, and he made a poor return of the ball. As it rolled toward the grand stand White waltzed across the plate and Fields landed on third. By this time the Pittshurg contingent on the bleacheries had increased ten-fold in numbers, and they howled over the discomfiture of the Bean Exters. Radbourn lost his head and hurled the ball out of Ganzel's reach thus enabling Fields to score white Miller walked to first. Maul was retired on a foul fly to Brouthers and Dunian closed the inning by sending a fly into left field, which Richardson captured after a hard run. The eighth inning saw both sides retired in order. the ball into right field for another single, sendactor a hard run. The eighth inning saw both sides retired in order.

WILL GO ON RECORD.

The Senators Bent the Chicagos in a Remarkable Game.

WASHINGTON, September 5.-To-day's game between the Washington and Chicago clubs, while far from being interesting will go on record as one of the features of the baseball season. Each club played a magnificent game in the field, and neither side made an error. The inability of the visitors to bat Ferson's curves safely was the principal cause of their curves safely was the principal cause of their defeat. The Senators, on the other hand, batted Dwyer quite freely, and their hits were generally well bunched. Up to the ninth inning Chicago did not make a run, and only two hits had bean secured off Ferson's delivery. After two men had been retired in the ninth inning, Van Haltren made two bases on a scratch hit and saved Chicago from a whitewash on Duffy's single. The features of the game were brilliant one-hand running catches by Wise and Beecher—the latter's catch being the best seen here this season. Score:

MORE HARD LUCK.

Secretary Scandrett Returns and Tells About the Club's Misfortunes. Secretary Scandrett, of the local ball club returned from New York yesterday. Speaking of the club he said:

"The team is in a badly crippled condition Hanlon, Miller, Sunday and Dunlap are all sadly out of condition, and the wonder is that the team can win any games at all. Had Hanlon been all right at New York we could have won two games at least. His absence caused two defeats. The team certainly is having the lion's share of hard luck. The New Yorks are in better shape than they have been all season. Mutrie says his putchers are all in first-class form, and the team will finish the season just as brilliantly as it did last year. Fon der Ahe Files a Protest Against the Umpires. SPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATUE.

St. Louis, September 5.—Von der Ahe is on the warpath. He telegraphed the following from Baltimore to-day: "I have entered a pro-test with the Board of Directors of the American Association against the three Kansas City games with Brooklyn, played in Brooklyn last week, in which Bushong was allowed to umpire. The laws of the Association absolutely demand that in the absence of a regular Asso-ciation umpire, one of the three substitute umpires, whose names must be furnished the President of the Association before the begin-ning of each season, must officiate. Not only President of the Association before the beginning of each season, must officiate. Not only did President Byrne see that no regular umpires were on hand, but his substitute umpires were employed in a neighboring graveyard and were dead to the world. He hied them away, and then, with his ready tool Watkins, the Kausas City manager, proceeded to effect his scheme to get the lead in the Association race.

"Byrne induced Watkins to let Bushong umpire. Bushong did umpire, and Brooklyn won three games hands down. Watkins did not even make a bluff, to have one of his own men officiate with Bushong to give the series an air of fairness and respectability at least. If the Board of Directors of the American Association are fair-minded and want to see fair play they will throw out the three games in question and have them either played over in accordance with the rules, or serve a just rebuke to Byrne and his underhanded methods by counting them against the Brooklyn club record. The Cincinnati game played in Brooklyn Tuesday and the game to be played to-day have been protested by me. One of them is the game regularly scheduled in Cincinnati on Sunday, August 25, but which the police prevented during the third inning while being played at Hamilton, O. Byrne took it upon himself to transfer it to Brooklyn. He had one postponed game with Cincinnati which was scheduled for Brooklyn on June 15, and one of the contests was this game. In order to transfer a same scheduled at one city to another it the contests was this game. In order to trans-fer a game scheduled at one city to another it is necessary to have the consent of a majority of club. This consent the Brooklyn club has

McKeesport, Pa., September 5 .- McKeesand a muff by Stricker in the fifth inning to- port and Johnstown put up a great game today and the home club only won in the ninth inning, when they got a hit and three errors gave them three runs and the game. Hartgave them three runs and the game. Hartman, who has been playing in the home team all season, joined the Johnstowns to-day and played his first game with them, catching a very good game. Ed Marburger, formerly of the George Schaus, is playing for Johnstown and is doing some wonderful hitting. He was not playing to-day on account of a sprained arm, but will take his place in the club to-morrow. Lawrence, who played with Braddock, is also one of their players and his hitting to-day was the feature of the game. Both Thompson and Patterson pitched good games. Thompson is McKeesport's new man, and he pitched agaist his home club to-day on trial and did good work, striking out seven men and only allowing soven hits, four of them being made after the side should have been retired. Patterson is also another new man in the box for the bome club, he having formerly been a catcher. He has just commenced to pitch, and has been doing some good work for the Bridgeville club. The Johnstowns put up a rattling good game, and made the home club hustle. Liston caught a great game, and his throwing to bases was great. The following is Britannic lowered the seven-furlong record at Sheepshead Bay. St. John put up the balance of Gaudaur's stake money for the latter's race with Teemer for $1,000 a side.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. SPRINGFIELD, MASS., September 5. This was a great day for trotting sport in this section, for the public patronized Hampden Park more liberally than they have done for many seasons, and the old-timers say it reminds them of the days when Goldsmith Maid drew admiring thousands to this same track. Besides the three regular events there was the free-for-all pace still undecided, and though Roy Wilkes was generally considered to be far away superior to his field, there was a possibility that Gossip, Jr., might show one of his surprising finishes and beat the stallion after all. No such sensation was in store, however, for the Wilkes horse was full of speed and had the victory won from the first quarter. Robins profited by his experience yesterday and drove a straight course, handling the fleet pacer very well, as Roy Wilkes jogged home in 2:14 on a track much slower than the elastic Charter Oak course. where he made his best mile in 2:13%. There s no doubt that he could have reduced that cord to-day under the same conditions. THE FAVORITES SUCCESSFUL. Then the regular card was taken up, and the talent were rejoiced to see the favorites successful in all three events. The guaranteed race of the day, and those who saw Hal Pointer limp along in his warming up work could not understand why he was the choice over a field understand why he was the choice over a field of seven competitors. Geers drove the gelding an easy mile in the first heat, permitting Alexander Boy to score one mark to his credit and get a record of 2:19. Then the Tennesseean set out to end matters, and by three rapid bursts of speed in the last part of each mile won the necessary three heats and evoked the admiration of the delighted spectators. Those who had seen the same roung pacer at Cleveland and Hartford were quite prepared to find him victor over a slower field than he had previously met, but his brilliant finishes were of a character to arouse the enthusiasm of the crowd.

SPEEDY WICKOPOO. The chestnut mare Wickopoo had quite a lot of speed, but seemed fretful in scoring and her chances were injured thereby, though she could scarcely cope with Hal Pointer when at her best. Turner displayed good generalship with Mambrino Hannis, and after waiting patiently for two heats was able to get to second place in the last two, thereby earning a fourth share of the stake. William M. Singer-ly's speed was of no use to him after he made fourth share of the stake. William M. Singerly's speed was of no use to him after he made one of his standstill breaks in the first heat and he was unable to beat the flag.

There was more than the usual interest in the free-for-all since Jack was to make his first essay in that distinguished class, and try conclusions with Gean Smith. The gray gelding found a doughty champion in the black flyer and was not able to get a single heat, though he forced Gean Smith to trot twice in 2:16%. Mambrino Sparkle was in the contest but not of it, and Splan had to devote his energies to beating the distance flag. beating the distance flag.

Jake is a fine specimen in the boat, and deserves the appreciation of St. John. Teemer looked as big and heavy as Barney Morris two months since, but to-day he stands as perfect in in condition as one could be. There does not appear to be an ounce of superfinous flesh on him, and his limbs feel and look like bars of hickory with ropes entwining them. He is all bone, sinew and muscle, and as active as a contortionist. It is probable that both of the men are in as fine condition as they could be, and a game race can be expected. Ruddock telegraphed to Hamm to-day that Gaudaur's new boat was shipped for Pittsburg to-day. He also stated in a telegram to Teemer that his new boat could not be sent before Saturday. It may take four weeks to get a jury. Judge McConnell refused to allow the defense to examine the supposed blood stains except under police surveillance. ISPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH.

CHICAGO, September 5 .- When the law yers for Coughlin, O'Sullivan, Burke, Beggs and Kunze exhaust the 100 peremp tory challenges to which they are entitled there will be some prospect of getting a jury to try the five prisoners charged with the murder of Dr. Cronin. Not a juror will be chosen by the defense until all of the chal-In Owner, Horse and Jockey Expelled for lenges have been used. The case has now been on trial one week. During that time Youngstown, O., September 5.-The third the defense has used up 20 challenges, eighty remain, and at this rate it will be four weeks before a single juror will be judges expelled Philip McConley, of Ft. chosen. It is clearly evident that the de-Vayne, Ind., owner of the bay gelding, King fense had rather waste one of its precious Alphonse, his jockey, Joe Naylor, and rubber, John Malloy, for shifting weights, having rode challenges than accept a good juror. This fact was emphasized late this afternoon when Wm. P. Brayton, of Blue Island, was peremptorily dismissed by Mr. Foster. Brayton was without much doubt an ideal juryman. He is a tall man with massive head and splendid face and ideas broader than his tremendous shoulders. He is a #### member of the Baptist Church. COMPETENT, BUT REJECTED.

He had read about the crime in the news papers, but formed no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of accused that could not be changed by evidence. He was opposed to no secret societies whose workings were not in conflict with the Constitution of the land. His prompt and intelligent responses to the skillfully worded questions of Mr. Foster showed the big farmer to be remarkably well suited to sit as a juror. But he was clearly too broad gauged for the defense, and with a wave of his hand Mr. Foster missed him from the box. The wearisome examination of veniremen continued all day. Many people came into the courtroom, but they soon wearied of the monotonous questioning and retired. A Catholic priest sat down within the rail and took notes in a little book. The prisoners, with the exception of Kunze, watched the proceedings intently.

The German does not appear deeply in-terested in the outcome of the trial. He spends most of his time scribbling on paper and ogling the women in the audience. Twenty-seven veniremen were examined during the day.

ONLY ONE JUROR YET. When court adjourned all had been excused for cause except Geo. A. Creighton, E. E. Graham and Roland A. Crandall. They were held over until to-morrow. Free man Gross still remains the only juryman who has been passed by both sides, but it is probable that he too will be dropped, as under the ruling of Judge McConnell the right of peremptory challenges may be exercised until the twelfth man has been passed by both sides.

Mr. Forrest made an unsatisfactory at tempt at the opening of the morning session to get a ruling from Judge McConnell which would permit experts of the defense to have possession of the gory relies from the Carlson cottage, for the purpose of microscopic examination. The court ruled that the experts could examine the specimens of the experts could examine the specimens of blood stains in the presence of the officers. but refused to grant the other half of Mr. Forrest's prayer which requested that the experts be permitted to invade the Carlson cottage and gather some blood stains on their own hook.

the Past Year. NEW YORK, September 5 .- Legitime, the banished ruler of Hayti, arrived in New York to-day with his family. They will sail for France on Saturday. In an interview Legitime gave the following history of events in Havtı during the past year:

Hayti during the past year:

On October 7, 1888, I was elected President of the Provisionary Government of Hayti. Everything was done fairly and squarely in my election, but intriguing spirits in the North accused me of fraud and cheating, and General Thelemaque came down with an army to declare himself the desired President of the North and South. I, of course, resisted his attempts, and about a week before the general election, my troops and those of the North under Thelemaque had an engagement and Thelemaque was killed. I did not conspire for his assassination. Be was killed in battle. But my enemies in the North turned Thelemaque's death into a deliberate assassination on my part, and kept up the ery against me.

turned Thelemaque's death into a deliberate assassination on my part, and kept up the cry against me.

We had heard thatifour deputies from the North were on board the steamer Haytien Republic with evil designs, and of course it was prudent for us to seize them. The seizure of this vessel was entirely a mistake, a mistake for which we were sorry, and this is evinced in the speedy manner in which we turned her over to her owners, together with a large indemnity. I was duly elected President of Hayti on December 17, 1883. My election was formal and regular. The war, you might say, was begun at this period, and soos after my accession to power circumstances and my rights and my people's rights forced me to engage in it. The war has been a bloody one and of long duration. Hippolyte came cown from the North sweeping destruction before him and spilling blood in a most shameful and diabolical manner, and I can assure you that the loss of so many lives pained me.

Finally, finding that the increasing numbers of the Northern army threatened my Southern country with destruction, I decided that the wisest and most proper course for me to pursue country with destruction, I decided that the waset and most proper course for me to pursue was to resign and retire quietly and peacefully from the country. I was not forced to leave Hayti nor was there any surrender. My departure from Portau-Prince was indeed an ovation to me. I love my people and I have every reason to believe they love me. It is very possible that I shall spend a year in France and then perhaps return to Haytl. My return, however, is undecided and depends entirely on the state of things.

The Cause of Trouble in a New York Cathelic Congregation - Two Members Refused the Sacraments Until They Make Pub-

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. AUBURN, N. Y., September 5 .- The strife between laymen and priest over the Father Lambert case in Waterloo does not abate one whit, but rather grows the hotter. The latest development occurred when Father Hickey, at morning mass in St. Mary's Church, read a letter from Bishop Mc-Quaid denying James Kelly and Wm, Dempsey, two prominent members of St. Mary's Church during Father Lambert's pastorate and his warm personal friends, the sacraments of the church until they should make public penance for bringing Father McGlynn to Waterloo. This letter was read at the early mass and again at the 11 o'clock mass, which Mr. Kelly, con-trary to his custom for the past five months, attended, having heard of the letter from his friends and expecting that it would be read again.

He was not disappointed and heard the penalty that was imposed upon him. In-stead of subduing Mr. Kelly's impetuosity, the letter rather increased it and in his wrath he rose after the priest had left the altar and in the presence of a majority of the congregation exclaimed: "I came here to answer for James Kelly, and as for Bishop McQuaid and J. J. Hickey, I neither crave their friendship nor fear their frowns." This action of Mr. Kelly caused a great sensation. For some reason none of the Waterloo papers published have printed a line about the matter. A copy of the Bishop's letter could not be obtained, but as reported by several who heard it, it said that James Kelly and William Dempsey should be deprived of the sacraments of the church until public penance had been made for bringing an excommunicated priest to Waterloo to creat a disturbance among Catholics and lecture on the Father Lambert case, which had been long decided.

The people of Waterroo think the true cause of the trouble is a controversy that has been going on in the Seneca county papers for the past month or two between Father Lambert's followers on one side and Bishop McQuaid and Father Hickey on the otyer.

Mr. Wallace was seen last evening, after his return to the city, but be declined to say what passed between him-self and his distinguished fellow Democrat, contenting himself with remarking that he had nothing to say on the subject which would be of interest to the public, It is known that before leaving for Wollingford Mr. Wallace had a talk with his friend, Candidate Bigler, who spent to-day in the city, in company with Congressman-elect Kerr, of Clearfield county; Harry Alvan Hall Hall, of Elk county, who presented Captain Clay's name to the Democratic convention in opposition to Bigler; Phroy Meek, of Bellefonte; C. the Clinton, Cameron and Elk judicial dis-trict. Judge Mayer is now serving his third term, and looks good for a few more terms. Candidate Boyer and Candidate Bigler met at the Continental Hotel this afternoon. They shook hands heartily, and mutually expressed their pleasure at meeting. "If I am to be defeated," said Candidate Boyer,
"I am glad I am to be defeated by such a type of Democrat as you, Mr. Bigler."
"After you are elected, Mr. Boyer." replied Candidate Bigler, "I shall be most happy to call upon you at the Treasury."

"Yes, and when you are elected," retorted Candidate Boyer, "I shall not only be pleased to call upon you, but I will be prepared to go apon your bond."

An agreement that the defeated candidate should call cathe winning one on the 6th of November, the day following the election, was entered upon.
